Vodafone honoured for role in Glencree peace centre

VODAFONE was presented last week with the Peacebond recognition for the company's contribution to the Glencree Centre for Peace and Reconciliation.

"We fully expect that the continuing success of the Peace Process will deliver very real economic benefit in both Northern Ireland and the Republic," said Gerry Fahy, strategy director, Vodafone Ireland, after accepting the recognition. "Both individuals and businesses now have an unprecedented opportunity to gain from the Peace Dividend."
